ABSTRACT

This report represents data collected by a mail survey comparing budgets, levies, and enrollments of small, rural schools (Class "C") in Montana for fiscal year 1991-1992. The average enrollment of 82 elementary schools was 128 students; the average enrollment of 82 high schools was 58. The average total enrollment of Class "C" schools was 186 students. Other information included in the comparisons are: (1) taxable valuation of elementary schools and high schools with average number belonging (ANB); (2) guaranteed tax base for district per mill for the elementary and high school level; (3) ANB budget figures for elementary and high school levels; (4) elementary and high school general fund budgets without special education; (5) elementary and high school cost to general fund per ANB without special education; (6) elementary and high school permissive mills; (7) elementary and high school permissive levy as a percentage of general fund; (8) elementary and high school voted mills; (9) elementary and high school voted mills as a percentage of general fund; (10) elementary and high school general fund reserve as a percent of general fund; (11) elementary and high school cost to general fund per student without special education; (12) elementary and high school special education budget and full time employment personnel; (13) elementary and high school transportation cost per enrollment figure; (14) elementary and high school teacher salaries as a percent of total general fund; (15) elementary and high school teacher/enrollment ratio; (16) teacher salary schedules for bachelor and master degrees; (17) highest salary on negotiated levels; and (18) summary of non-certified staff and extra duty items. INTRODUCTION

With the publication of this 1991-92 Class C Survey, we begin our eleventh year of this program. Now, a decade later, we have made several changes. Those of you who participated in the survey collection noted that the instrument itself has been modified to reflect changes in the state funding bill which went into effect in 1989. These include information on the Guaranteed Tax Base and the Permissive Levy both of which have significance under the new legislation. We asked rural administrators and personnel from the Office of Public Instruction who attended last summer's Rural Education Conference to help us streamline the survey and they did. We also asked them what things to keep and what to change. The new instrument is a result of that discussion.

The results of the survey, printed here, also reflect requested changes. There is a Table of Contents and numbered pages for the first time so that readers can turn directly to the information they are seeking. We have also included a summary of high, low and average for the information collected regarding the salary amounts for instructional aides, non-certified staff and extra duty. We still have the complete collection on those items, arranged alphabetically by school, printed as an addendum to the regular survey.

Because of time and personnel constraints, if a school district did not return its survey to the Rural Education Center we were unable to include any information about that school in this report. It is hoped that in the future our timelines will conform more to the Office of Public Instruction's so that we will be able to once again utilize their data for all Class C schools. However, the delivery date to school administrators of the third week of January at the annual MHSA meeting, makes working with that data impossible at this time.

I would like to thank Dr. Lee Spuhler of the Rural Education Center who for the past two years has been responsible for mailing the surveys and Phyllis Anderson who tabulated the results in a very short time frame this year. A special gratitude should go to Ralph Kroon who had the original idea for the Class C Survey and was responsible for their collection for a number of years and to Arlene Williams who tabulated the results for a number of years. There is one other group of people whose work should be appreciated. These are the computer experts at Western who, through the years, created and revised the program so that the survey could be organized in a comprehensible manner.

We hope you find this material useful and encourage you to please let us know of further improvements you would like to this program. This survey is published as a service to the small schools of Montana by the Rural Education Center of Western Montana College of The University of Montana.
